EPA

Mr. Gray, I just listened to EPA's latest Animas Mine Spill press teleconference/briefing--I started a couple of minutes late. First of all, is it possible for you to identify the names of all those from EPA who spoke on the teleconference call?

Second, those who did speak made reference to expectations that more complete data will be posted on an EPA website, possibly tonight or tomorrow. Could you please send me a URL for that website?

Third, could you also please notify me as to when the next teleconference will be held for the press, since your staff indicated just now that there will be a followup when more data is available and more conclusions are known about impacts, short and long-term.

Thank you and sincerely,

Tony Davis
